

Studying the effects of American English in Indian Society & It's Benefits

Japneet Kaur¹, Dinesh Kumar Sharma²

^{1,2}Guru Kashi University, Talwandi Sabo

Abstract

Experiencing the same thing, English is a language that is mostly taught. It's hinted that it's a 'global language,' the multi-most frequently used language of the high-level time frame. It is the language that is most commonly taught as a second language around the world. In India, English is utilized for interstate and intrastate correspondence as well as for international correspondence. India has an incredible ethnic and etymological diversity, and we may expect English to play an important role as a 'interface' language. With the rapid advancement of Information Technology, Science, Medicine, Irrigation, Education, Mass correspondence, programming, and working structures, another use fullness for written and oral communication in the English language has emerged. English is thought to be the most important language in the world, with practical and educational value. English is spoken everywhere in the world, not because of any compulsion, but because of the fact that it has distinct focuses

Keywords: English, greatest, Common language, Major window of the modern world.

1. Introduction

The English language is perhaps the United Kingdom's most valuable but underappreciated global resource. It is a basis of our personality, and it maintains us in the minds of numerous people all over the world, even when they aren't talking to us. One of the key topics that has attracted our attention throughout the years is the use of English in all aspects of our lives. Since the British invaded our land, English has been anticipating a commanding place in our day-to-day and mastery lives. It has now evolved into a symbol of people's desires for better direction and a more complete life. Support in public and international life, and it's no surprise to say that it's a picture of most amazing people. The undeniable influence of English's vicinity is that it is now acknowledged by everyone at the secret time of mentoring, which is important even at a higher level of guiding. As a result, the work and significance of the English language in our public educational programme has grown significantly. The current project aims to highlight the significance of the English language in contemporary Indian culture, as well as the role it plays in the current public and global environment.

1.1. Role Of English:

In everyday life, English is considered a complicated occupation. In banks, railroad stations, transportation stations, flying courses, informative parts, supportive divisions, and private divisions, it is utilized as a way of correspondence. English is an association language that is also utilized in business on a national and international basis. If they had appealing social abilities, students who fly overseas for advice and careers would keep quiet. We all know how important English is to students since it helps them plan their careers and achieve their objectives. If students are capable in instinctual capacities, they will be confident in dealing with the majority of unpleasant people, which will be a good experience for them to apply the same to stand up to.

A brief history of the formation of American English (divided into three periods whose dates correspond to political and social events with significant implications for the language) and the characteristics of American English (explanation, spelling, language construction, and language) in comparison to British English are the main topics of the following segment. The major parts of phonetics and phonology examined in the approach for communicating American English are instances of explanation, distinct addresses for specific words, stress, sound, and temperament. The specific features of spelling are based on a summary of the early endeavours made consistently to further develop orthography related to the reproduction of spelling - improvement, derivational consistency, regularisation, and the impression of oration - which are then recorded and exemplified, along with unambiguous features of spelling. The language section starts with a handful of strategies for language advancement in the American English box over a number of years. By then, selected language contrasts between British and American English have introduced a couple of models: same words, exceptional or additional ramifications in a single combination; same thought, different terms or enunciations (and here the distinctions have a place with the most widely perceived fields of common language); and hyperbole differentiates what's more, usage.

1.2. Importance and use of English language

English has been referred to as a "window to the world" because of its impact on several fields such as business, guidance, information technology, science, and development. It has been depicted as a line for the flow of facts in all components of learning on occasion. The Radhakrishnan University Education Commission kept a close eye on things "It (English) is a language with a lot of humanistic, coherent, and specific writing. We would be removing ourselves from the living stream of reliably producing learning if we were to give up English due to nostalgic impulses. Our norms of reward would swiftly rot if we were unable to advance toward this learning, and our assistance in world improvements of thought would become obsolete - for living nations must move with the events and must respond quickly to the hardships of their current situation." The Kothari Commission has appropriately focused on English as a basic occupation in high level training as a large library language. The panel maintained that no student should be regarded qualified for a degree without a Master's endorsement, presuming he has a reasonable command of the English language.

1.3. As a Link Language in the worldwide setting:

English is a language of associations. It is necessary for international correspondence. As the need for a global language grows, so does the need for a global language. English is simply a language that people in many parts of the world can see and understand. "The number of neighborhood English speakers is estimated to be 300 million to 450 million," according to the report. (Stevenson) It is estimated that about one billion people speak some kind of English.

1.4. As the Library Language:

According to the Kothari Commission, English is a library language and is expected to be an important employment in advanced schooling. The panel maintained that no student should be regarded qualified for a Master's degree until he has demonstrated a reasonable command of the English language. "The consequences of this (English as a library language)," according to the Commission, "are twofold: all teachers in higher education should be fundamentally bilingual, in the sense that they should be able to instruct in both the common language and English, and all students (particularly postgraduates) should be able to seek after talks and use concentrate on materials in the regional language, as opposed to English."

1.5. English is helpful for Business exchanges:

When it comes to broad and international trade and exchange, English is an association language that facilitates the process. Without qualified employees, no business can continue to operate. The fundamental criterion for selecting agents in the vast majority of company associations is exceptional command of the English language and capacity.

1.6. Official Language:

Today, English is spoken by a wide range of people in diverse job situations. We couldn't image working in a workplace that didn't use English. The loss of English will have a negative influence on the workplace. The majority of participants in the working environment speak English in addition to their native language and regional language. As a result, they choose to communicate in English in order to do their usual tasks. As a result, if the workplace attendees are brought closer to say farewell to the English language, they will face a tremendous challenge.

1.7. Language of Media and Entertainment:

For broadcasting purposes, English is used by 70% of media and entertainment networks. Electronic media transformed the world into a global city, bringing people from all over the world closer together as its use grew, and this was only possible because of the English language.

1.8. Language of Information Technology:

Programming software developers create programmes that shape the Internet's purpose. They make up the great bulk of skilled and associated occupations, accounting for roughly 34% of the total business. Software engineers create, test, and adjust the unambiguous headlines, considered ventures, or code that PCs require to accomplish various tasks, including as interfacing with the Internet or displaying an English-language Web page. Language teaching in general, and English language education in particular, has changed dramatically throughout the years. Informative advancements, particularly PCs and PC-related peripherals, have exploded in popularity and have permeated every aspect of our life. Today's world is so vast that no one could argue that banks, hospital centres, or any other company should use specific data. The Internet has expressly converted into a vital gadget in our information culture, one small step at a time. We can see people seeking online assistance, business transactions, personal correspondence, research, and information gathering.

2. Result

As a result, it's everything except a denial of the fact that English is the world's most widely spoken language. The use of English has been steadily increasing in numerous countries, and it is now the primary language in the majority of them. English correspondence progressed toward being valuable as a result of the same thing. If one gains sufficient command of English, he can communicate his/her thoughts, aggregate knowledge, data, and so on, and keep in touch with the outside globe, thereby further growing his work and advancing the country.

As shown in Table 1, variations in the usage of English among Indian neighbors have occurred. The accompanying graphs indicate a massive increase in the consistent spread of English. People began to refer to it as their mother tongue. Table b (below) shows how much money was spent on each item (See Table 1.)

Language	People who changed their mother tongue					Decadal percentage increase %
	1971	1981	1991	2001	2011	1971-1981	1981-1991	1991-2001	2001-2011
English	191,595	202,440	178,598	226,449	259,678	5,66	11,78	26,79	14,67

Table: 1. Growth of English language in India

3. References

[1.] Heera G.Rajwani , Present scenario of English Language in Higher Education, INTERNATIONAL MULTIDISCIPLINARY JOURNAL ISSN 2277 -4262

[2.] Abida Begum, Importance of English Language in India: Its Role in Present National and International Set Up ISSN:2348 – 0343 International Journal of Interdisciplinary and Multidisciplinary Studies (IJIMS), 2014, Vol 1

[3.] <http://iml.jou.ufl.edu/projects/students/Wheaton/page1.htm>

[4.] M. Samanth Reddy, Lecturer in English, IMPORTANCE OF ENGLISH IN TODAY’S WORLD International Journal of Academic Research ISSN: 2348-7666; Vol.3, Issue-4(2), April, 2016

[5] Algeo J., British or American English? A Handbook of Word and Grammar Patterns, Cambridge University Press, 2006, Cambridge. pp. 43-52

[6] Menken H. L., The American Language, Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., 2006, New York. pp. 361 -362

[7] Finegan E. and Rickford R. J., Language in the USA - Themes for the Twenty-first Century, Cambridge University Press, 2004, New York. p. 4

[8] Phillipson R., Linguistic Imperialism, Oxford University Press, 1991, Oxford. pp. 117-121

[9] Mathews M. M., The Beginnings of American English, Pennsylvania Journal and Weekly Advertiser, 1931, Chicago. p. 17

[10] Baugh A.C. & Cable T., A History of the English Language, Routledge, 1993, London. pp. 368-370